Chairman's message

In July, as the monsoon clouds gather on the horizon, a sense of anticipation fills the air. The rhythmic patter of raindrops begins to serenade the earth, weaving a tapestry of magic and wonder. In the enchanting embrace of the monsoon, we find ourselves captivated by its awe-inspiring beauty, and within it lies a profound invitation to explore the deeper tenets of existence.

The monsoon, with its transient showers, reminds us of the impermanence that permeates every aspect of life. Just as the raindrops fall, only to merge with the earth, we too must learn to recognise the fleeting nature of our experiences.

The rains are also a reminder of our interconnectedness with all living beings and the natural world. July is the month when we celebrate World Nature Conservation Day, honouring this interconnectedness by nurturing and protecting the precious ecosystems that sustain us.

The raindrops whisper tales of renewal and rebirth. Parched lands transform into vibrant landscapes, mirroring the potential for growth that lies within each of us. Let us heed the monsoon's call for renewal, shedding old patterns and embracing the possibility of personal and collective transformation.

At Santiniketan, Gurudev Rabindranath Tagore had aimed to foster this deeper connection between humans and nature through the Varsha Mangal festival. As we immerse ourselves in the enchantment of the monsoon, let us remember Tagore's initiative and the profound influence he had in deepening our appreciation for this wondrous season.

May the spirit of Varsha Mangal inspire us to not only revel in the beauty of the monsoon but also to cultivate a deep sense of responsibility towards the environment! Let us renew our commitment to conserve and cherish the invaluable gifts of nature, recognizing that our own well-being is inseparable from the well-being of the Earth.

As we stand in awe of the monsoon's magnificence, let us allow its magic to inspire us. Learning from its impermanence, interconnectedness, longing, and renewal, together we can create a world where the monsoon continues to weave its spell, nurturing life, and inspiring our souls for generations to come.

The 6th Charles Correa Memorial Lecture took place at the Royal Bengal Room, City Centre Salt Lake, on 15th July, 2023. Started in 2016, the event marks the death anniversary of the late Charles Correa, an eminent architect of post-Independent India, and is held annually in his honour.

This year's lecture featured two distinguished architects: Brinda Somaya from Mumbai, India, and Bibhuti Man Singh from Kathmandu, Nepal.

Brinda Somaya, the Principal Architect of Somaya and Kalappa Consultants (SNK), is renowned for her four-decade-long work that integrates architecture, conservation, and social equity.

Bibhuti Man Singh, the chief mind behind Technical Interface in Kathmandu, brings with him five decades of architectural expertise, emphasizing functional design rooted in cosmology, symbolism, and cultural heritage.

Like every year, the lecture became a melting pot of the best ideas from the world of contemporary architecture, where the guest speakers celebrated the legacy of Charles Correa by throwing light on the essence of meaningful, inclusive and responsible architecture.

In a village nestled amidst the picturesque landscapes of Rajarhat, something remarkable took place that left an indelible mark on the lives of its women. The Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) wing of the Ambuja Neotia Group, in collaboration with Chittaranjan National Cancer Institute (CNCI) and Shikharpur Sri Ramakrishna Sarada Sangha, organised the first-ever Cancer Awareness cum Screening Camp in Shikharpur. What followed was a massive response, with 173 women participating in the camp, demonstrating their enthusiasm for embracing better health practices.

The CNCI, a prestigious cancer hospital under the central government, brought its oncologist and technical team to lead the screening process. Separate facilities were arranged for cervical screening and mammography to cater to the specific requirements of each test. The Camp stands as a testament to what can be achieved when communities, organizations, and government institutions come together for a common cause.
